

netdocuments® + DocuSign Electronic Signature Integration

Easily send, receive, and track electronic signatures without ever leaving NetDocuments

Make Signatures Seamless

Collecting signatures can be a time-consuming, logistical headache whether you distribute your documents physically or digitally. Even with electronic signature solutions, there are extra clicks in transferring documents from a DMS to an e-signature solution and back again, which can expose documents – and your firm – to risk.

With NetDocuments' integration with DocuSign eSignature, you can harness the power of the world's #1 e-signature platform built directly into the DMS. You can streamline workflows, save valuable time, and avoid the cumbersome challenges of a typical signing process — without compromising on security.

Streamline Your Process	Maintain Security & Governance
Users can easily send, receive, and track e-signatures on documents inside NetDocuments — no printing, scanning, or exporting necessary. And, because it's so intuitive, no extra training is necessary for internal or external users.	Never having to download a local copy of a document means you no longer need to worry about governance or retention issues. Plus, you won't end up with multiple copies spread across disparate locations. Your confidential documents stay secure and under your control.
Request and Track Signatures	Automate the Final Product
With NetDocuments' integration with eSignature, you can efficiently mark areas of a document for signature and send signature requests via DocuSign's secure platform. You have full visibility into the process with easy status tracking and activity notifications — all within the DMS. Plus, DocuSign's Certificate of Completion provides a permanent audit trail of each sender, signer, or recipient of the document.	Once all signatures are obtained, a new document is automatically uploaded to NetDocuments with all signatures included. You can then choose whether the executed document should replace the official unsigned version, or select a new location to save the final copy.

Industry-Leading Innovation

It's no wonder electronic signatures are becoming the new expected standard in modern business: the convenience, security, authenticity and simplicity is unmatched.

But the benefits for your organization extend even further. By partnering with with DocuSign, the undisputed world leader in electronic signatures, to integrate this capability into NetDocuments, the signature process is even easier — and more secure. With NetDocuments' integration with DocuSign eSignature, requesting and obtaining e-signatures is more efficient and less complex for internal and external users alike. Say "hello" to greater productivity and accelerated agreement completion for transactions, NDAs, employment-related documents, and more.
