Most employees spend nearly 2 hours a day searching for documents. Save your employees time with an easier way to find documents in your organization – instantly.

Across your organization, documents are likely stored in various locations. For example, your legal department may store most files in NetDocuments, and other teams may use other softwares or practice management systems. To ensure comprehensive search results and maximize your organization's institutional knowledge, your users need a way to search all platforms at once – which is exactly what NetKnowledge powered by BA Insight delivers.

With NetKnowledge, you can:

Eliminate Downloading and Indexing Data for Search

No longer does content within NetDocuments need to be downloaded and indexed to be part of your enterprise search. Now you can simply search within the NetDocuments platform, and NetKnowledge will find relevant data--along with the source of the information—and present it to your users.

Enforce Access Controls on Sensitive Information

Sensitive information may need to be restricted to certain individuals, but that data also needs to be available to others via enterprise search. NetKnowledge respects data restriction policies at the source and will only present data to individuals with the proper access rights.

Manage Large and Disparate Data Sets Across the Organization

The amount of data available is growing rapidly, as well as the various sources of internal information. Too many different systems create confusion and poor alignment. NetKnowledge helps organizations bring all their data together to form a single source of truth, so your users don't have to perform multiple searches in different places to get the information they need.
